Gailie, (Forgive the spelling) - Best of luck in Penn. - sure wish you were staying here -
Love
Dad

Dear Julie, is the dearest girl in the "Freshman" class.
 Never forget all the fun we had in still Biology class.
 Lords of Luck, as if you needed it, in Penn., I know all the kids will love you. Just flash your having eyelashes and swing your hips, and you will have a dozen boys following you.

Always Remember the fun we had at the Choir picnic and the crazy rides we went on. That night in the Sail was really a riot - but we really deserved it.

Presentation

The years 1957-58 are the dates of the International Geophysical Year. This joint undertaking by fifty-six of the world's nations is to promote world harmony through the conscientious endeavors by the brotherhood of science. The purpose of this period of coordinated efforts in the fields of geology, meteorology, astronomy, physics, chemistry, and outer space is to study our planet from all its aspects, while it also tends to bring the works of the individual nations into one combined, unified movement.

All of this has posed the question of whether our educational system is doing its job effectively. Is it channelling its curriculum toward this new era of the future, or does it need re-vamping? We present to you the summation — pictorial and editorial — of this year's endeavors and activities for your evaluation of whether Owosso High School is meeting this new challenge brought before it.

Driver Education is offered to the students in high school to further the program requested by the state law. There is class instruction for six weeks; then each student has a chance to demonstrate what he has learned behind the wheel. Minimum class instruction is thirty hours, and behind the wheel instruction is six hours.

Harold Jenkinson gives Karen Kirkman the field of vision test in Drivers Training Class. The classroom instructor is L. Hutchinson.

Janet Mc Avoy, a sophomore, reads the third-hour notices.

HI-

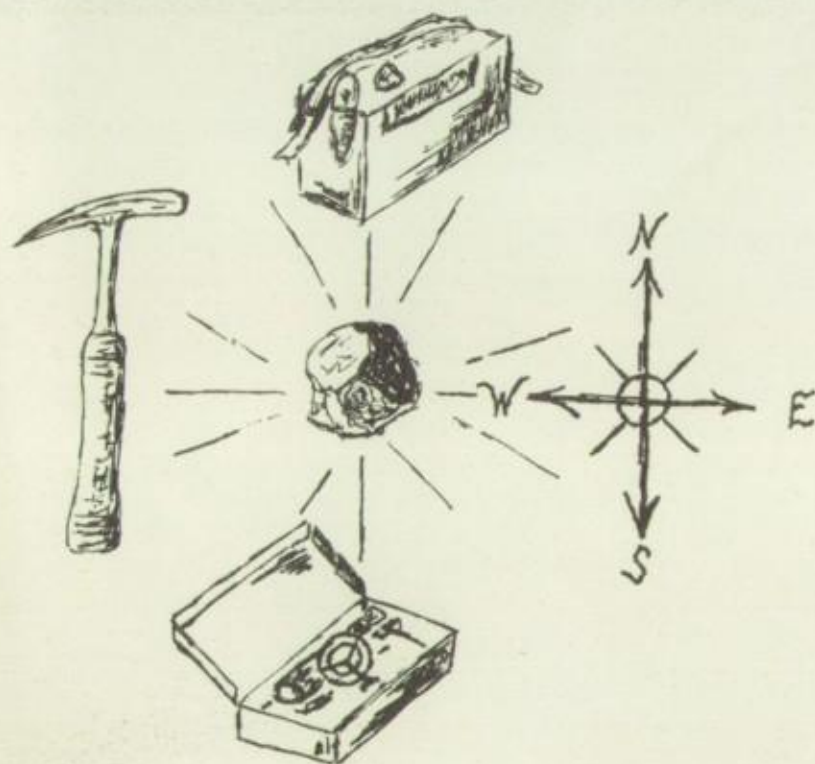

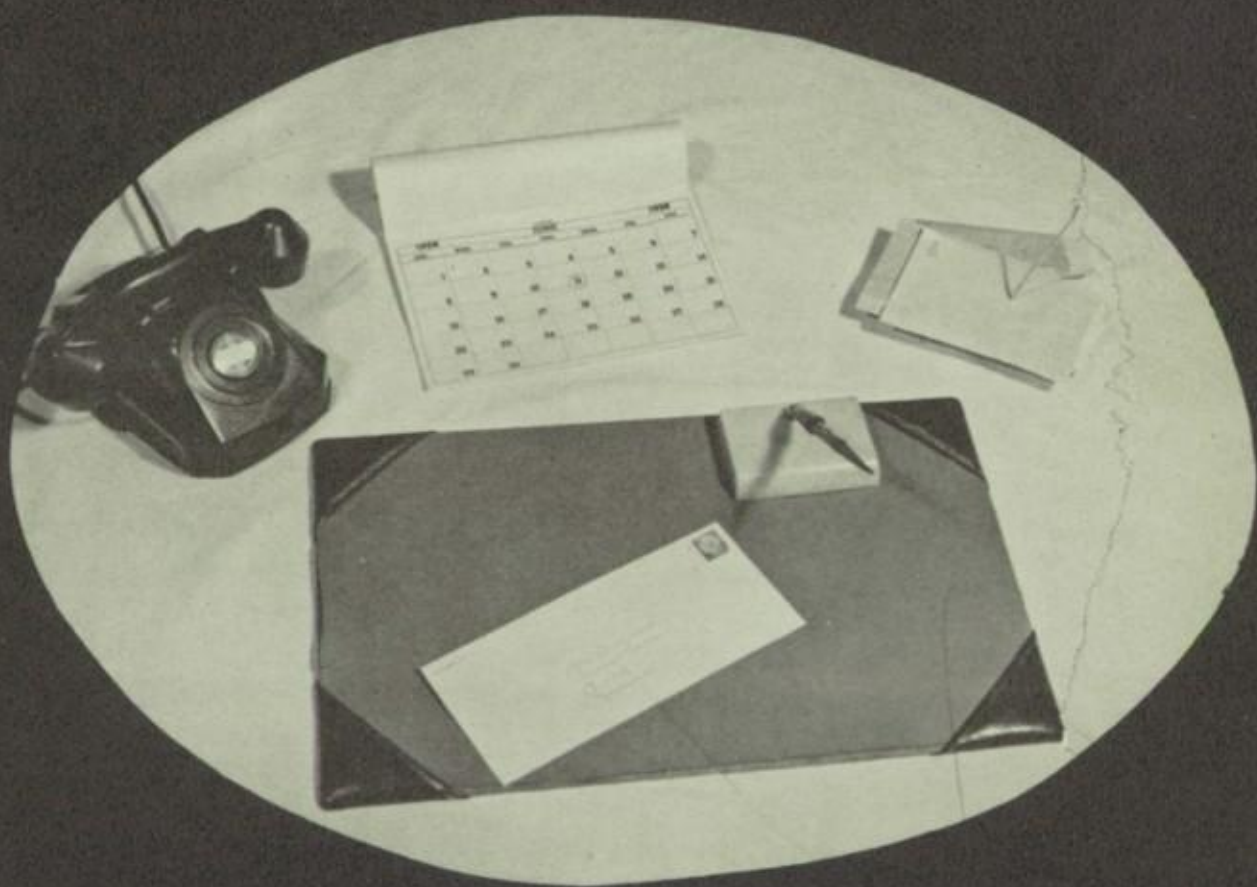

LITES OF 1957-58

The Administration resembles the science of Geology. The rocks and the earth foundations combined make up our terra firma. Like these, the Administration forms the basis for our school system because vested in it is the final source of authority and power. We look to it for assistance and guidance, for it is the backbone of our institution.

dent of Schools

Mrs. Minnie Gebhart,
Assistant Principal and

Student Council

The Student Council consists of representatives elected from their respective classes and organized to promote a better understanding between the students and the faculty. Among their numerous jobs is the responsibility of a successful Talent Assembly each year and the Homecoming Activities. The Council was instrumental in the promotion and establishment of the Safety Club. It was also responsible for the P.A. System in our high school. The membership of the Council is as follows: four freshmen, six sophomores, six juniors, and eight seniors.

J. Meier, President; Rik Horn, Vice-President; R. Ackels, Sergeant-at-Arms; L. Stewart, Advisor; N. Martin, Secretary-Treasurer.

Student Guidance

There are sixteen counselors. Each student is assigned a counselor for four years according to the course of study he has chosen. For example, a boy on Agricultural course is assigned to an agriculture teacher, Mr. Hill or Mr. Dalglish; or a boy on Industrial Arts Course is assigned to Mr. Lee, head of this department. The counselors plan with the students their schedules, help them with failures, give vocational information, and assist the student with any personal problems upon request.

Mr. Lee helps Roger Wetzel, a senior, plan his schedule for the school year.

Vocational Guidance

There are sixty-five vocational students enrolled on the co-op program getting work experience on the job in stores, offices, and various trades. The employer and the school work closely together to see that good training is provided.

Mr. Irving Holtforth, director of the co-operative training program.

Co-op student, Carl Haggert, assistant mail and supply clerk, operates the Pitney-Bowles mailing machine in the mailing room of the General Telephone Company. This machine seals, stamps, and stacks envelopes all in one operation and puts out approximately 200,000 envelopes every month.

These co-op students work half days in local business firms.

The counterpart of the science of Astronomy is found in the Senior Class. Like the true scientist in this field, the members of the class keep their eyes on the heavenly bodies, their goals in life. In order to attain these, each Senior must be prepared physically, emotionally, and mentally. The aim of the school is to offer him an opportunity to develop his abilities into capabilities, in order that he may someday contribute to the age. Whether he becomes just another falling star or a brilliant Nova is the challenge each must face.

The end and the beginning: Diplomas

These seniors received the highest academic honors attainable during their four years at Owosso High School.

Mary Davis, Valedictorian, is the fourth senior in the history of Owosso High School to graduate with a four-point average.

Salutatorian, Judy Spitler, during her four years as a college preparatory student attained the second highest average - 3.857.

Gary Collinson is the second senior of Owosso High School to qualify for the National Merit Scholarship.

Nancy Jo Martin was honored with the Daughters of American Revolution award.

Qualifications for membership in the National Honor Society are based not only on the student's scholastic achievements, but also on his leadership, character, and service to the school.

The Underclassmen are similar to Chemistry in that they are experiments. The different and often unpredictable reactions occurring in experiments compare relatively with underclassmen's actions upon each other. Students and chemistry alike are one continuous step toward advancement. Mistakes are corrected through experimenting. Just as the chemist experiments in different fields to find the true answer, so do the underclassmen experiment in different courses and activities before they become personages of tomorrow.

Our school Classrooms can be likened to the science of Meterology. Like the instruments that study the various phenomena, the students-with the assisting hand of the instructors-study lore. Like the instruments that compile data, the students gather from many sources information which they apply in many ways. They take in the knowledge presented to them in much the same manner that the instruments absorb the information of the conditions around them. Finally, as the weather balloon is able to rise to the heights, so can the students who effectively use the ideas gained by them.

Howard D.
Shanafelt
Head of Department

Speech and English classes develop the abilities of speaking effectively before a group. Foreign languages develop an understanding and appreciation for the customs and cultures of other lands. Our Communication Department also offers advanced literature courses that pave the way for our college prep students who plan a further education in liberal arts.

In the realm of time

Clarence S. Hood
Head of Department

Today's students realize what a small place the world has become—how extensive a history it has piled up in its several thousand years of "recorded time." The Social Studies Department teaches the student a better understanding of the world and its peoples and enlarges his appreciation of the institutions and customs of other lands. This knowledge aids students in understanding the workings of the government and helps them to be better citizens.

Science teaches man to question

Science is more than a collection of facts and theories; it is the study of a part of man's struggle to make sense out of the world and himself. General science reviews the science of earlier years. Biology is the study of life and living matter. Physical science incorporates a bit of all the sciences. In the more advanced subjects, Chemistry and Physics, more detailed exploration is made into the realm of natural laws and processes, and the states and properties of matter and energy.

D. Wittchell

L to R: Biology students B. Phillips, D. Root, A. Leiner, B. Hughes, and B. Matzkanin observe protozoa through the microscopes.

Howard Beattie, Jack Howard, and Margaret Rose study the internal combustion of an airplane engine in Physics.

In the Physical Science class, N. North, D. Morrisey, B. Hahn, and P. Dawson learn how to use a first-class lever.

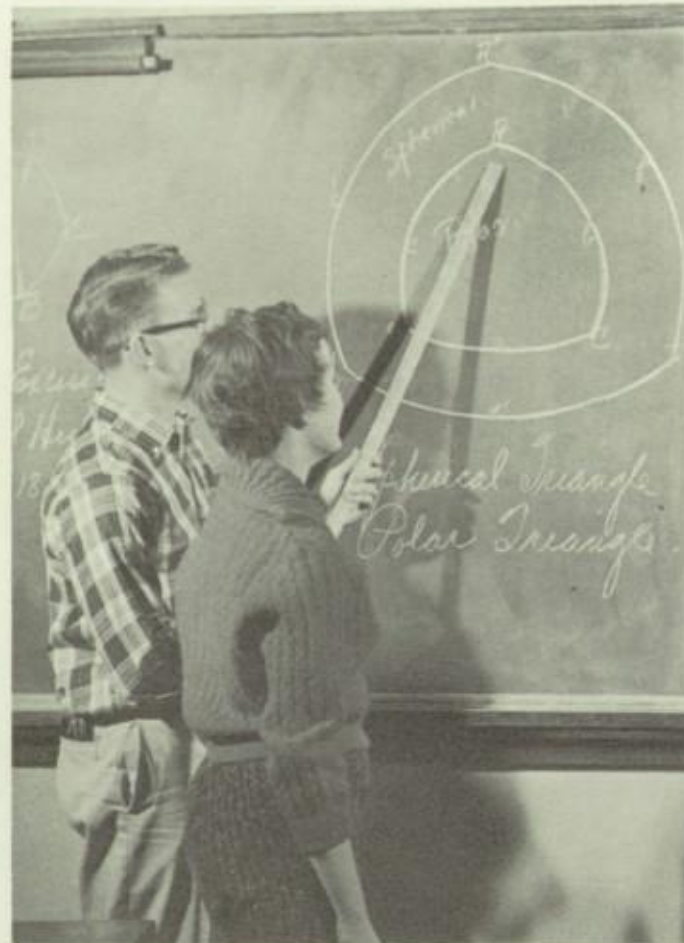

Foundations of modern luxuries

In this age of machines and electronics, mathematics is the basic tool for research. Without "math" the modern technical world could not exist. Most of the top professions today require a lot of mathematical ability. To fulfill this need, students are given a chance to become acquainted with the phases of "math." The math courses offered at O.H.S. are Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, Advanced Algebra, Solid Geometry, and Trigonometry.

Paul French

L to R: B. Bisel, L. Barnum, and J. Buckley are calculating, coating, and scraping their Wood Shop projects.

Steve Levitski works on the lathe in Metal Shop.

The Industrial Arts Department gives both boys and girls actual experience in shop work and offers them an opportunity to see what type of work they are interested in and are capable of doing. They work with wood, plastic, different types of electrical units, blue printing, and setting type. Report cards, hall permits, tickets, and posters are all products of this department.

Charles Morecroft works at a molding project in the Metal Shop foundry.

L to R: D. White, V. Carpenter, J. Hasse, J. Allen, and D. Poirier look on as Mr. Clack explains a fundamental of Mechanical Drawing.

Gerald T. Butler
Head of Department

The backbone of industry

Since the employer is totally dependent upon his secretaries and typists, the students must take various commercial subjects to meet the challenge of their prospective jobs. A good business cannot run smoothly without a good clerical background. Subjects offered in our Commercial Department are bookkeeping, business English, shorthand, stenotype, business arithmetic, retailing, Jr. business, and office machines.

W. Virt

Grace Guentensberger and Betty Hunt are rushing to complete their five minute drill.

M. Weatherby

Mrs. Virt is dictating to the shorthand class their daily vocabulary words.

A. Boulee

Norma (Palmer) Chavora and Alice Luchenbill are solving their office machine problems.

The way to a man's heart

Regardless of the choice of vocation a girl selects, she nearly always winds up being a homemaker. Several courses are offered to pave the way for our future homemakers. In Foods class, students learn the proper techniques of preparing and serving foods. Included in this course is a study of child care—learning its moods, behavior, likes and dislikes. Students learn to design as well as cut patterns in sewing classes and are given the opportunity to continue in advanced sewing and needle work by taking a Home Arts Course.

Nina Parrish
Head of Department

R. Anderson

L to R: M. Tilson and N. Hilderbrant test their cookies, while E. Conger makes the cocoa in Homemaking.

L to R: S. Porter, D. Zaleski, S. Bremer, S. Wells, and D. Prussner work on their projects in Home Arts.

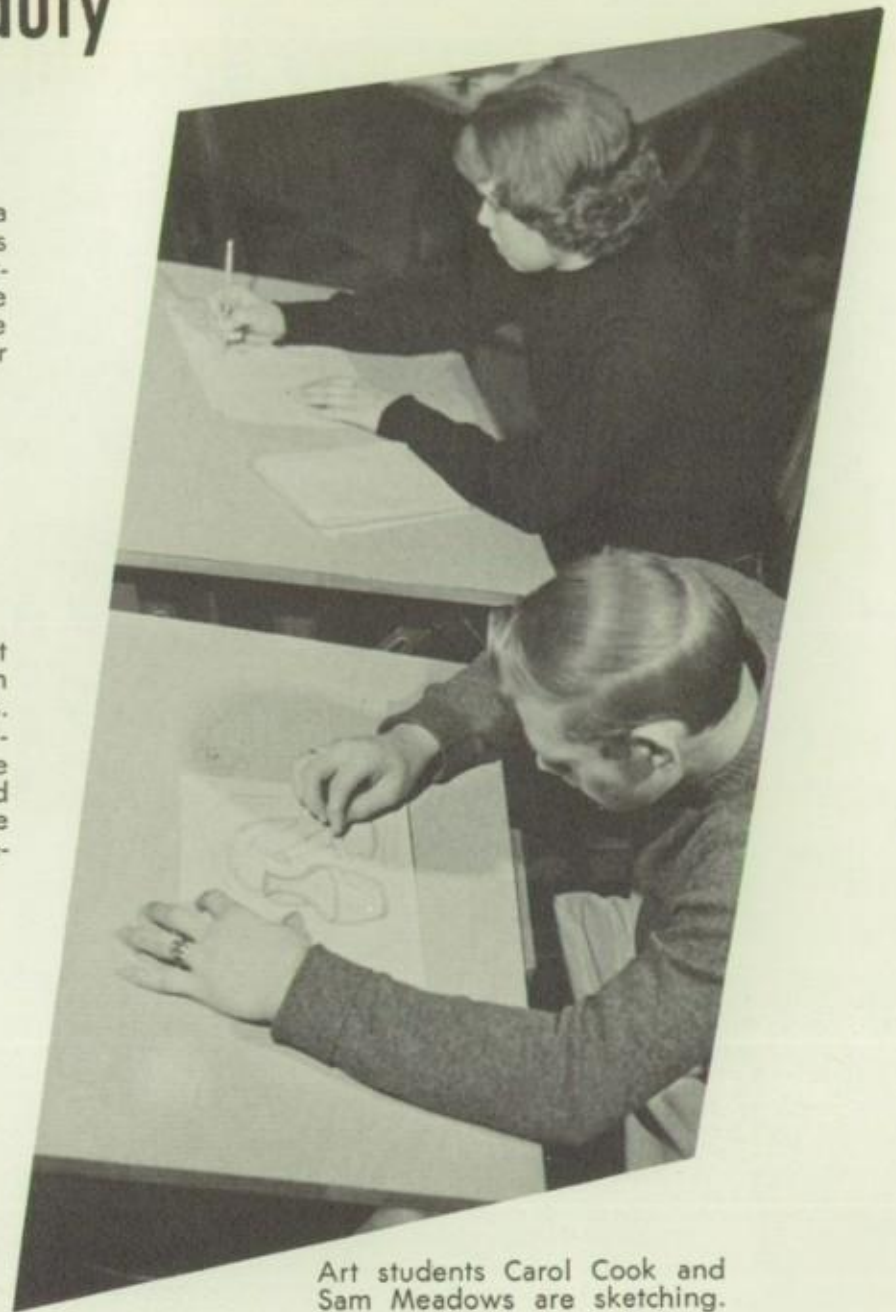

Phyllis M. Conger

A thing of beauty

The Art Department provides a means by which talented students may express themselves in the various ceramics and art projects. The students also contribute much to the appearance of our school with their holiday decorations.

Speaking for the past and present students of Owosso High, we wish to express our appreciation to Mrs. Emily Osmer Scott. In her twenty-five years of teaching at O.H.S., she was always willing to lend a hand wherever art work was needed. We extend best wishes to a long-to-be-remembered teacher and friend.

Art students Carol Cook and Sam Meadows are sketching.

Randy Shier molds his ceramics project.

For the breadbaskets of tomorrow

Agriculture includes a much wider field than the livestock, crops, and machinery which appear on a farm. It offers Vocational Agriculture to the future agricultural leaders by teaching them why the agrarian economy is so important to the national welfare. The boys are given experience in actual farming practices, in the uses and repair of farm machinery, and in acquiring an understanding of the values of efficient production, processing, and selling.

It is required of every student to have six semesters of physical education of which one must be swimming. Gym keeps the student in shape and teaches him the fundamentals of various sports. Swimming teaches students the basic strokes and prepares them for the life saving courses. Kraus-Weber National Strength flexibility tests were given to the boys and girls. Out of 267 boys taking the test only ten were unable to pass; 220 girls took the test with only sixteen unable to pass. Owosso High scored very high as compared with other schools having a failure percentage of only five per cent.

Student teachers lead the students in their exercises. "Ready; Begin! One-Two—Two-Two—Three-Two—Four-Two!"

The Organizations of our school bear much resemblance to the laws of Physics. The student body comprises the substance, and their endeavors in these extra-curricular activities are the perpetuating forces behind our school system. If their energies are combined in the right manner, the result is harmony; that is, the activities all working together give valuable experiences to the students, contribute needed facilities to the school, and develop school spirit. As the machines are dependent on power to put forth their finished products, so are the personalities of our students dependent on the varied activities of organizations to bring out their better qualities.

OWOSSO HIGH SCHOOL CONCERT BAND

Marching in parades, giving concerts, and competing in contests were the main activities of the band during this past year. They performed at all of the home football games and two away games. The Thanksgiving Concert was their next performance; and following this came the Christmas Concert. The pep band attended all of the basketball games in our gym. Individual students and groups entered the District Solo and Ensemble Contest in Mt. Pleasant. Sally Bremer, Eloise Ragland, Robert Davis, John Westcott, and Stanley Soffin were awarded firsts, and entered State competition. Winning a first in the District, the Concert Band vied for State recognition. The marching band performed in the Holland Tulip Festival. Their year officially ended by playing for the Commencement Exercises, although the band will be called upon several times throughout the summer.

FALL GAME FEED

These girls from the F.H.A. are modeling in their style show the latest fashions in Easter hats.

The F.H.A. has been busy all year taking part not only in their own affairs but also in sending delegates to the state meeting at Grand Rapids. They also attended the Regional at St. Johns, where they were responsible for the stage decorations. Getting ready for their annual Mother and Daughter Banquet always creates much interest, especially when their guest speaker was our German exchange student, Ute Weiner. This really ties in with their theme, "Home-making at home and abroad."

There are sixty-seven members in the F.F.A. During the year the boys in the agricultural department work on their own farms, using their own equipment on the Supervised Farming Program. Each boy has one or more improvement projects such as building, repairing, and landscaping; and he has one or more productive projects, such as swine, poultry, and dairy to work on. The boys sell apples, garden seeds, popcorn, and Christmas cards to raise money to buy equipment for the members' use.

Things Worth While

My life would be
So much worth while,
If but one soul
Received from me
An inspiration;
Or if one tired friend
Was rested,
Having been with me.

My life would be
So much worth while,
If just one aching heart
Were soothed
By something I had done;
Or someone in despair
Received new hope
Because of me.

Indeed,
My life would mean
So much
If some downtrodden wretch
Were made to smile
Because of some Kind word from me;
Or someone had his faith
In all mankind revived
Because he claimed me
As his friend.

I would that all of these Kind deeds could be
My heritage to man;
But still my life would be
So much worth while
If only one of these Were true.

—Mr. Courneyer

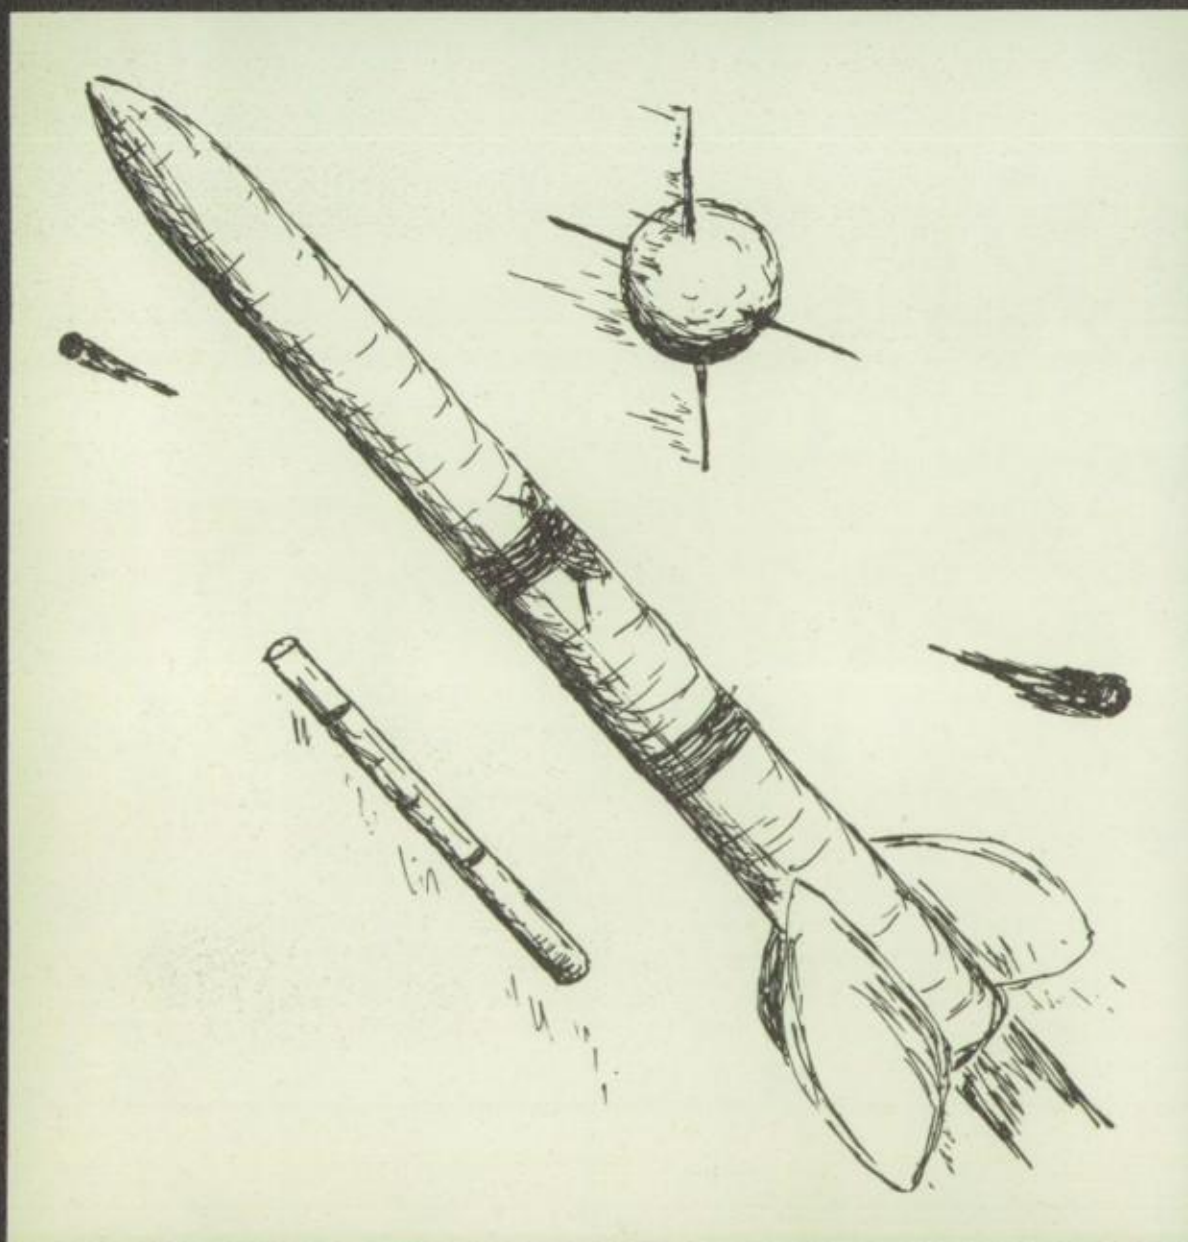

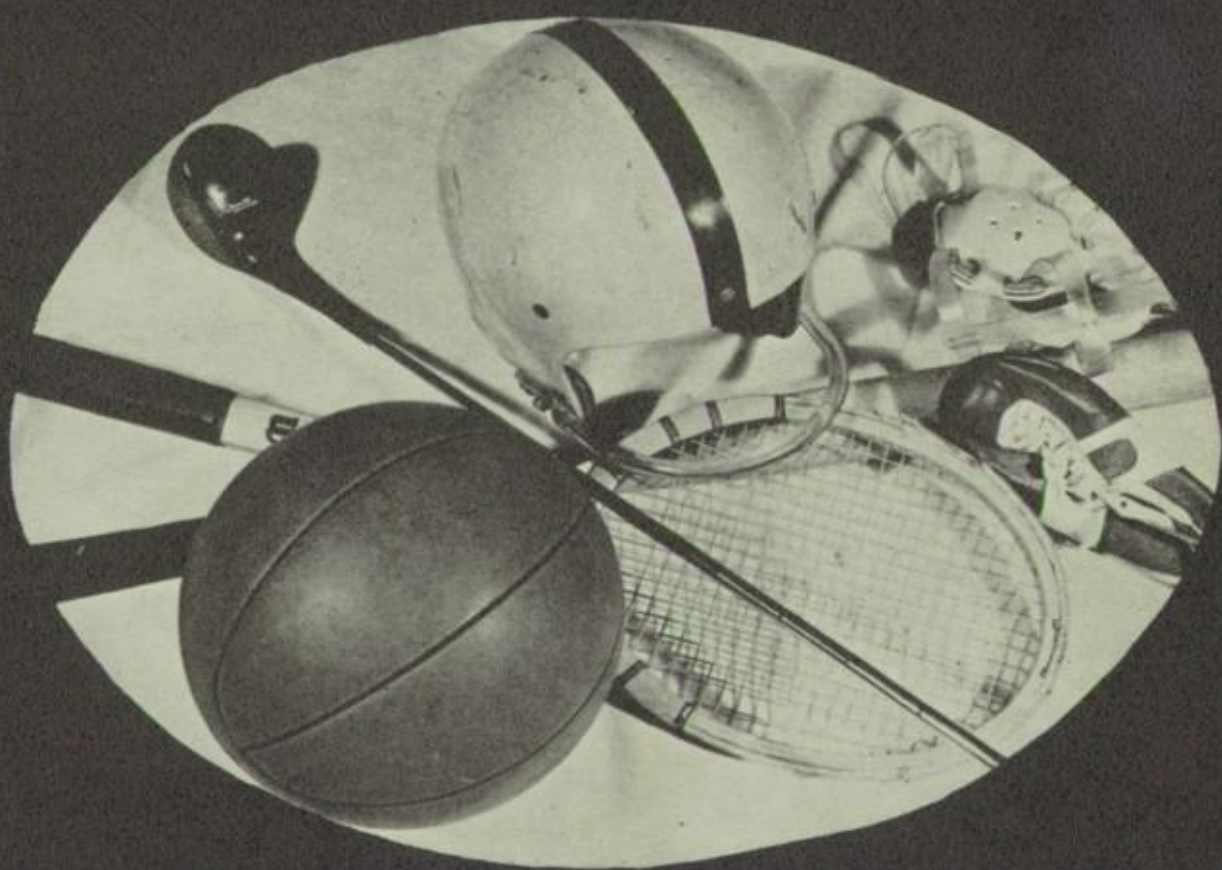

This year the In-Service Planning Committee reviewed the problems and the curriculum of the Owosso High School. Miss L. Stewart was chairman; Mrs. M. Freeman, secretary.

Mr. Lee checked the programs for the Youth Talent Exhibit with David Drummelsmith and Richard Dysinger.

Today's youth must be better equipped to face tomorrow's Space Travel. Just as the satellites are a small beginning of what is to come, so are the mind and the body in preparation for the future. A strong back with a weak mind, or a strong mind with a weak physical condition is an incomplete combination. A tip top physique and an active mind are the necessary elements in the new age. Broad muscle coordination, good spirit, good training, and correct living habits carve the way to sound bodies that support the good minds and prepare the students for the "Freedom of the Air."

The season was disappointing to everyone, coaches, team, and fans.

We opened at Bay City Central, getting trounced 48-0. Next game was with Lansing Eastern where we were defeated on our own field, 14-0. Our Homecoming with Lapeer was a success, 34-14. We then lost to both Jackson and Lansing Sexton, 12-0 and 25-0, respectively. The last game we won was with Flint Beecher, defeating them 18-0. We finished the season losing the last three games! Alpena, 46-0; Midland, 28-0; Bay City Handy, 18-0.

Trojans

Smashed to a sudden stop by Captain Jim Hasse is the Flint Beecher quarterback John Vargo (52). He made no progress on the kickoff return after the big Trojan hit him with a cross-body block. The Buccaneers made little progress in bowing 18-0 to the O.H.S. Trojans.

In the picture at the left, Grove Holman is on his way to Owosso High's longest touchdown run in years. He went 50 yards for the Trojans second score.

One of Owosso High's near successes in the Lansing Sexton game was this kick-off return by Gary Whitesell. The sophomore half-back took a pass from Larry Gimm, a seldom used tactic, and was barely caught at midfield by an unidentified Big Red. Lansing Sexton won the game, 25-0.

Driving hard for a first down is Gary Whitesell during the Lansing Eastern game. He had Lansing Eastern's Ron Robbe on his back, but he drove to get the first down. Eastern won the game, 14-0.

In Action

End Doug Butler lands hard after being spilled by an unidentified Lapeer Panther while another unidentified visitor drives for the loose ball. The fumble, one of four in the opening minutes of the game, stopped the first Trojan drive.

For the first time in years the O.H.S. homecoming was a really happy event, for the Trojans triumphed in the football game. They piled up a 34-14 margin over Lapeer. In the picture to the right, Jeff Hudson's (13) 31-yard touchdown dash got the Trojans started on their way to victory.

For the lack of an offense, being weakened by the flu epidemic and injuries, the Trojans suffered defeat at the hands of the Jackson Vikings. 12-0 score.

Varsity Basketball Team

Row II: L. to R. N. Nimmo, J. Hanley, B. Walters, Coach Boulee, T. Burkhardt, J. Papciak, G. Grant.

This was a very poor season for the team with a won 0 - lost 15 record. It was very discouraging to both the student body and the players. The boys tried hard in the last game, but to no avail, they were downed by Lapeer 44-47.
